

Discover Komet BioRepair

The new ready-to-use solution for vitality preservation.

Lemgo, November 25, 2024 – Since its foundation in 1923, Komet has strived to provide excellent service and high-quality products for every step of the dental treatment. The new BioRepair Putty ties in seamlessly with this mindset and rounds off Komet's endodontic portfolio.

Komet BioRepair presents itself as an "all-in-one" solution that helps dentists to simplify their processes. From pulpotomy to apogenesis and retrofilling, Komet covers eight indications and enables dentists to preserve their patients' natural teeth for as long as possible - even in challenging cases.

Due to its innovative formula, the putty can both stimulate the patient’s healing process and ensure vitality preservation. These characteristics make BioRepair the perfect solution for standard treatment procedures, but is also particularly suited for treating challenging patients. Furthermore, the high alkaline pH value of ~12 help to inhibit bactericidal growth – a feature which is further enhanced by using a material that does not shrink during the setting process, leaving no space for bacterial infiltration.

In addition, dentists benefit from the easy application and consistently high Komet quality: The bioceramic putty comes as a ready-to-use solution. That way, user errors when mixing the material can be ruled out, and dental practices save both time and money.
